Important Legal Financial Note - We are not financial professionals in the legal terms and the information shared are purely for entertaining or educational purposes. Even financial professionals who present time to time on our stage, do not speak in their professional capacities and do not offer any advice or recommendations directly to any individual. They are merely sharing their experience. We do not advise on any product or plan or system, as every individual has a different risk appetite. We do our best to ensure accuracy but we will not be held liable for any losses incurred either directly or indirectly. If in any doubt for the suitability of any exhibited system please consult your professional financial advisor.

Important Legal Trading Note - There is NO guarantee of any returns. Any returns mentioned are targets and results are not necessary typical for everyone. All trading activities carry a risk of loss, and you should not embark on any type of trading if you are not able to accept the limits of the loss. Our courses are EDUCATIONAL in nature, and should NOT be taken as professional advice in any way or form. Nonetheless, we conduct all our courses to the best of our abilities, and we even insist that for the first year, your trading capital should only be $100! If you cannot take a "maximum possible" $100 loss, you should spend more time on your career, instead of trading.
